Comments from the Chair

Greetings! I hope with the cooler weather on the way you are still planning on coming to the KLS October meeting. In celebration of National Chemistry Week we have our annual student demonstration show, with guests from local schools as well as Universities. Since the future of chemistry is with our students, we dedicate the last 2 meetings of our year largely to them. In order to honor our outstanding research undergraduates in November, we need your nominations now! Please consider nominating someone you know that is conducting exemplary research (an undergraduate & a professor), the form is available on the KLS website (<http://kentuckylake.sites.acs.org/>) under the Awards Committee. We are also looking forward to the next year and that means officer nominations are also needed. If you want to help KLS remain nationally recognized, please run for Chair-Elect this year.
